

Trademarks and Trademark Usage Guidelines

Follow these simple guidelines to ensure that your marketing materials successfully leverage the OneStream Networks brand and comply with our Terms of Service.

Appropriate Use

- OneStream Networks logo on a web page describing your partners.
- References to OneStream Networks' technology and list of offered services.

Inappropriate Use

- The word "OneStream Networks" in a URL.

Please seek approval from customerexperience@onestreamnetworks.com when using the main OneStream Networks logo in association with your products or services.

Avoid using OneStream Networks colors or other brand features where it may confuse someone into thinking your business or website is owned and operated by OneStream Networks.

For legal and practical reasons, it is important that companies offering services that use OneStream Networks technology establish themselves as distinct legal and professional entities. Creating unique brand assets, like logos, colors, and graphics, will help you build recognition for your business and all your services in the marketplace. It will also help potential customers understand what services you offer, versus the products and services offered by OneStream Networks itself.
